HISTORIANS TO FURNISH "HILL ROOM"

Furniture which nearly a century ago graced the living room of Dr. John Lawrence Hill on Chambersburg St. has returned to the county.

Members of the Adams County Historical Society viewed the chairs and sofa, piano, pictures and other articles while conducting their meeting Tuesday evening in the Old Dorm on the seminary campus.

Within the next few weeks, when appropriate wall paper has been placed and a room otherwise prepared, the furniture will be moved to another floor of the old dormitory to become "The Hill Room" in the rapidly developing museum being established by the society in the seminary building.

WAS "THE DENTIST" HERE

The furnishings recalled the days of 70 years and more ago when Dr. Hill was "the dentist" in Gettysburg. Three granddaughters of Dr. Hill, Miss Katharine Walter Kumer, Mrs. Louise Kumer Ankrum and the late Mrs. Margaret Kumer Hartley, had preserved the furniture in their homes in Norwalk, Ohio. They had restored the chairs by making needlepoint seats to replace the original mohair, a six-year project.

They asked a local friend, Mrs. Howard W. Sheffer, W. Water St., who had aided them in caring for the Hill house on Chambersburg St. for many years and assisted in its sale to Christ Lutheran Church to become that church's parish house, if the Historical Society wished to have Dr. Hill's furniture.

George Olinger, vice president of the Historical Society, and Garrett Newton, Gettysburg R. D., operator of Mineral Transfer, drove last Friday to Norwalk in a tractor trailer donated by Newton, and returned with the furniture and other articles, including Dr. Hill's records, a tall grandfather's clock made in 1805; large portrait oil paintings made of Dr. Hill and his wife, the former Margaret Witherow, baby shoes of the Hill children, and

Links Ike With Romney

ANDOVER, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., conservative, often mentioned as a potential Republican presidential nominee, said at a news conference at Logan International Airport in Boston today that Gov. George Romney of Michigan is being backed for the GOP nomination in 1964 by the party's "kingmakers."

Goldwater named former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Leonard Hall, former GOP national chairman, as leading backers of Romney.

As for his own chances for the nomination, Goldwater repeated the frequent assertion that he would be a candidate for re-election to the Senate in 1964.

General Eisenhower is out of town today, hence was not available for comment.

STORY BY IKE ON SUNDAY

A tour of the Gettysburg Battlefield with General Dwight D. Eisenhower and a reminder from the Gettysburg Battlefield Preservation Association to purchase commemorative stamps and first day covers will be the cover feature of Sunday's Parade magazine. The article will appear in all Parade franchise newspapers Sunday.

The Parade section calls attention to the thousands of school children in the U.S. who as members of the 200 groups who have already organized "Save Gettysburg" drives in their schools, have raised nearly $5,000 for the preservation of the battlefield as a national shrine through the purchase of private lands adjacent to the battlefield.

Eisenhower is quoted as saying, "It is a pity that this one piece of terrain is not kept so that youngsters can see it as nearly as it was in 1863." The GBPA is attempting through voluntary funds to preserve the battlefield area.

The association reports that every mail brings additional requests for stamps and first-day covers, the fund-raising project of the association, but that substantial amounts still are needed to carry on the worthwhile project. Requests and contributions are to be addressed to Box 1863, Gettysburg, Pa.

SAYS GOP ONLY 1 VOTE SHORT ON TAX BOOST

By FRED WALTERS

HARRISBURG (AP) — House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson said today he is within one vote of passing a 5 per cent sales tax bill.

"I have 105 votes and I expect to have 107 next Tuesday," he told the Associated Press. "That is my target date for voting the bill."

There are 109 Republican members in the House. Johnson declined to identify those who are holding out against passage of the increase in the sales levy.

HOLDOUTS INVITED IN

Gov. Scranton pitched in this week to help round up votes among the 45 members who either voted against the 5 per cent plan or abstained from voting a week ago.

Caucus sources said 29 voted against the plan and 16 abstained. The governor's office conceded that the holdouts had been invited in to see the governor but said they did not have the names of those who accepted the invitation.

There were no House members on Scranton's appointments schedule distributed daily to the capitol newsroom.

FAVORS ALTERNATE PLAN

Meanwhile, Rep. Ralph J. Down R-Mercer, said he still favors an alternate tax plan, but will vote for the 5 per cent proposal if left with no other choice.

Down was one of the original holdouts against both Scranton's original plan for raising $139 million in new tax revenues for 1963-64 and the 5 per cent plan worked out as a substitute by GOP leaders. The Sharon businessman advocated a general sales tax, at either 3 per cent or 4 per cent.

"I'd want to exempt food," he said, "and that might leave us short at 3 per cent, so you might have to go to 4 per cent."

EXEMPTIONS IMPORTANT

All other items now exempt would be subject to the sales tax. Down produced a sheet of statistics that showed only about one-third of the sales tax's revenue potential is being realized under the present system of a 4 per cent selective levy.

Whereas the tax now is yielding $410 million annually, a general sales tax at 4 per cent—with no exemptions—would raise about $1.2 billion, he said.

However, one-third of that would include a tax on the raw materials used in manufacturing and such things as fertilizer, feed and seed in farming.

If there were no exemptions under the sales tax, he pointed out, the rate could be reduced to 2 per cent and raise about $800 million.

BISHOP CLAIMS ROCKY 'IMAGE' DESTROYED BY NEW MARRIAGE

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP) — The divorce and remarriage of Gov. Rockefeller were "an appalling shock to the moral sensibilities and sense of fair play" of Americans, a Methodist church leader says.

Bishop Fred Pierce Corson of Philadelphia, president of the World Methodist Council, predicted "the Rockefeller incident" would cost the governor three to five million votes, should Rockefeller be the Republican candidate for President next year.

Bishop Corson commented in a statement Tuesday. He was here to preside at the annual meeting of the church's Wyoming Conference, which comprises Methodist churches in the southern tier of New York State and eastern Pennsylvania.

WED SATURDAY

Rockefeller and the former Margaretta Fitter Murphy were married Saturday and now are honeymooning at his ranch in Venezuela.

Rockefeller, who is 54 and a Baptist, was divorced in March 1962 after 31 years of marriage. His 36-year-old bride, an Episcopalian, received a divorce last month. Each has four children.

The governor is prominent among possible GOP candidates for the presidency next year, although he has not said he would seek the nomination.

CRITICIZES DIVORCE

Bishop Corson said the church required that "persons entering the marriage relation . . . not take lightly or bless the putting away of one wife and the breaking up of another marriage to satisfy personal desire and passion."

"What Mr. Rockefeller has done has saddened millions of Americans whose image of him has been that of a man worthy to be lifted up as an example in both public and private life."

When a man runs for public office, the bishop declared, his private life becomes a matter of legitimate concern to the voters.

Appeals Decision Of Justice Snyder

Bruce Group Jr., Biglerville R. 2, has appealed the decision of Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder in the trespass action brought against Group by Peggy N. Myers, Biglerville R. 2.

According to the papers filed in the prothonotary's office, Peggy Myers sued Group for damages to her car following an accident at 4 p.m. December 30 at the intersection of the Peach Glenn/Spers Rd. with the Bendersville Rd. According to the testimony at the hearing before the justice, Daniel Showers was driving the Myers car on the Bendersville Rd. when Group, traveling on the other road, made a left turn in front of the Myers auto. The transcript shows that the hearing was scheduled for 8 p.m. April 17 and when Group did not arrive by 9 p.m., the hearing proceeded. According to the testimony at the hearing, Group did not wish a policeman called to investigate and told the other parties he would pay for the damages. The justice set the damage that Group should pay at $270.39 representing the damage to the vehicle, plus interest of $4.50 and $14 costs.

According to the transcript, Group on May 1 appealed the case to court and posted $50.

Rev. Charles G. Aurand, 223 Chambersburg St., who graduated from the seminary in 1913, spoke on "Reminiscences of Student Days in Old Dorm." He termed his residence at the seminary "a midpoint period, before the old had disappeared and before the new took over. For exercise we had walks on the battlefield and we proudly possessed two bowling balls — one much larger than the ones used today and one much smaller, and three pins. Despite the lack of equipment we had a bowling league."

Entering the seminary where the new refectory was being completed "we ate in the basement for the first three months and then moved upstairs when the dining hall was completed. The food was outstanding, but the cost was very high, $13 a month for three meals a day. But we made no complaint because of the convenience and the good food. In fact we ate better there as students than we did for some years after we began our ministerial duties."

Transportation was a problem. To preach in Friendsville, Pa., on a Sunday while a student he had to leave Gettysburg by train on Friday and travel by way of Hagerstown and to reach Friendsville late Saturday. He was able to return to Gettysburg by Tuesday.

CENTENNIAL DISPLAY

Seminary students were welcomed into the community a half century ago but "sometimes the college students had a little difficulty with the town boys. The town youths claimed the college boys stole their girls and occasionally college students would be pelted with rotten eggs. But it didn't happen very often and usually everyone was friendly."

Sterling Musselman spoke of plans for the display of Currier and Ives Civil War prints at the Visitor Center June 22 to July 8 as part of the battle anniversary observance. The historical society is to provide members in Civil War period garb to welcome visitors and give information on the prints.

The society voted to cosponsor with Gettysburg College the convention of the Pennsylvania Historical Association at the college here October 11 and 12.

broader powers in Haiti to make suggestions for a settlement.

The New York Times said the Dominican Republic would ask the OAS for a hemisphere-wide break in diplomatic relations with Haiti's dictatorial regime and for imposition of economic sanctions. The report said the Dominicans expected "a large measure of support" from the United States, but that Washington doubted the 14 votes required for sanctions could be mustered.

TO HEAR HAITIAN

The U.N. Security Council also scheduled a meeting today on the crisis, to hear Haitian Foreign Minister Rene Chalmers protest what he termed "the aggression of the Dominican Republic" against Haiti. The 11-nation council was expected to refer the question back to the OAS, the action it usually takes in such cases.

An airlift to evacuate families of U.S. officials from Haiti was to start today. U.S. undersecretary of State George W. Ball said the evacuation had been ordered because the Haitian government "to some extent seems to be falling apart."

Relations between Duvalier and the U.S. government have grown steadily worse in recent months. Opponents of Duvalier have threatened to revolt by May 15, and fears are growing that the embattled dictator will unleash bloody reprisals against foreigners in general and Americans in particular.

The State Department urged the 1,300 other U.S. citizens in Haiti to leave.

DIES OF INJURIES

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP)—Earl W. Hetrick, 50, of Newville R. 2, died at Carlisle Hospital Tuesday of injuries suffered in a three-car crash on Route 64 about six miles west off here.

Louis Wright, 41, of Newville, hospitalized along with Hetrick following the mishap Saturday night, was listed in good condition.

Civil War. The plaque will be dedicated during the centennial observance.

Berwyn Russell reported that a desk from the Chambersburg post office has been placed in the library at the Old Dorm and that "all books in the library are now ready for use." He reported a school room being recreated in Old Dorm is "about completed," and a number of other rooms devoted to various aspects of county history are being completed. Eventually the various rooms of the Old Dorm will be filled with historical mementoes. Most will seek to recreate typical scenes of various periods.

Town Borrowers To Meet Bills:

Urged by President Ray M. Hoffman to pay bills overdue for electric and water service for which they had contracted, members of borough council Monday evening ordered the payment of light and water bills that have accumulated since council, at the March meeting, refused to pay bills presented by the local utility companies, and backed Councilman C. W. Epley in his demand for "free service" for Gettysburg. With utility service bills of about $2,000 awaiting payment, council authorized a new loan of $3,500 and the renewal of a $1,000 note that falls due this week. The balance in the general borough treasury was reported at $47.19. A quick checkup on current bills on the table for payment Monday evening showed a new loan of $3,500, the smallest amount on which the borough business can be carried on during the month. As they voted to pay bills due the Metropolitan Edison company and the Gettysburg Water company, councilmen abandoned their plan adopted in March of bringing pressure to bear to gain free service for Gettysburg.

Officers were elected at the annual organization meeting of the Gettysburg High School Alumni Association held at the high school Tuesday evening, following the report of the nominating committee by Mrs. Lawrence Oyler. Mrs. Ellen Tipton Wheeler was chosen to succeed William G. Weaver who has served as one of the alumni group for the last year. Miss Selma Fisel, North Washington street, was elected secretary to succeed Mrs. S. Richard Eisenhart. Paul Fox, president of the graduating class, was chosen as vice president, following an established custom. Mrs. Gladys Raymond Kelley was re-elected treasurer, and J. Melchior Sheads, North Starline St., now a teacher at the Lincoln school building, was chosen statistician for another year.

Wentz Buys Building: Roy W. Wentz, East High street, purchased the Bender apartment building at 119 and 121 Baltimore street from H. B. Bender today. The terms of the sale were private. The property included five apartments, the Wentz furniture store, Kuhn's flower shop, Virginia Myers' dress shop and Gertrude Myers' shoe repair shop. Bender bought the building in 1919 when it was the Washab hotel property. He converted it into apartments. Wentz has conducted his store in the building since 1922.

Trinity Circle Organizer Dies: Friends here received word this morning of the death of Mrs. Mary Ellen Pontius, wife of Dr. Paul Reid Pontius, former pastor of Trinity Evangelical Reformed Church in Gettysburg. Death occurred at Lehigh where Dr. and Mrs. Pontius have resided since leaving Gettysburg 36 years ago. Mr. Pontius was the organizer of the Trinity Circle, which continues as an active organization in the local church. Her husband served as pastor here from 1916 to 1922.

Warner Hospital Average: The rapidly increasing volume of service being rendered by the Warner Hospital during the more than 17 years of operation in this community is well demonstrated in figures released today by hospital officials, showing that the number of patients admitted each month during the past year averaged about 104 persons as compared with the average of about 97 during the first year after the hospital was opened. A total of 13,373 patients have been cared for at the local institution, the figures show. That total includes those admitted up to April 1 of this year. Nearly 150 additional have been admitted since that

FEAR—THE 'WORST PARTNER'

There are certain people who could not possibly succeed as partners. For instance, a dishonest man and an honest man could not win together for each would be repugnant to the other. The honest man would have to take a share of his dishonest partner's gain, which would make him dishonest.

There are partners and partners, however — but the worst of all, perhaps, where one's life happiness is concerned, is that of fear. You cannot win with Fear.

Absolute faith is fearless. Complete confidence in one's ability knows no fear. The moment fear enters into an action, that moment the action loses its stability and its driving power. The man who feels in his heart that he cannot fail will not fail. A man always fails within himself.

You cannot win with fear!

There is an atmosphere about the man who courts no fear. He is dominant. He knows his own mind. He may make one, yes, a thousand mistakes — but he pays no attention to them, excepting to profit by them and use their memory as danger signs on the way ahead.

The man who is afraid to go ahead of course never goes ahead — or anywhere, for that matter. He just shuttles.

To know your danger is not to fear, even though you walk into it white of face.

A healthy mind and a clean heart — a body kept in natural order — leave no room for fear to enter and take command.

Fear acts as poison. It can wreck the strongest who give in to it. The child, with the strong hand of its father tightly holding its small hand, has little or no fear because it has confidence. A strong character is forever fortifying itself against fear.

PRIDE

There are two kinds of pride, and one is fair

And one is bitter, cruel and unkind;

Pride as a virtue purifies the mind

And keeps but what is clean and gentle there,

Sets up strong guards against temptation's snare,

Cherishes friendships, puts all shame behind

And with each day new splendors hopes to find,

And for all men a smile is glad to wear.

Pride as a vice goes forth with smirks and sneers,

Makes jest of honest effort and displays

No thought for others, for their hopes or fears

But straws with hurt what should be friendly ways.

God grant that I may come unto that pride

Which keeps my neighbor happy at my side.

Kennedy Remains Cautious Over Alabama Race Crisis

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has chosen so far to take an extremely mild—and indirect — role in the dangerous racial situation in Alabama.

Through an aide he expressed hope the problem could be solved by the people of Birmingham, where Negroes have put on the biggest campaign in the Southern civil rights struggle.

Thousands of Negroes have been demonstrating for days for equal treatment. Thousands have been jailed by police who drenched demonstrators with high-velocity hoses and even used dogs against them.

AWAITS REPORT
Meanwhile the President awaited the outcome of efforts being made by his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who several days ago sent two top assistants to Birmingham to try to bring white and Negro groups together.

Last fall the President appealed directly by television to Mississippians to be peaceful when U.S. marshals escorted James H. Meredith, a Negro, to the University of Mississippi, which had been ordered by a federal court to let him enter.

But by the time Kennedy made the appeal—on the night of Sept. 30, 1962—rioting had already broken out on the Ole Miss campus. It lasted until the following morning. The marshals were attacked and two men were killed.

Kennedy could use force in the Mississippi case—because a federal court order had been defied—as he did, first with marshals and then with troops. It has been argued since that if he had used troops in the first place, instead of marshals, there might have been no riots.

NO LEGAL PLANS
But in Birmingham at this time white officials are not defying a court order and at the Justice Department here reporters were told the government had no legal grounds for intervening.

Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon Democrat, said there is room for the "Justice Department to make clear the federal government is not entirely powerless to intervene."

He cited a federal law which says it is a punishable offense for anyone willfully to deprive anyone of any rights or privileges guaranteed all citizens under the Constitution.

The Rev. Martin Luther King, who initiated the massive demonstrations in Birmingham, said there would be no end to them until Negroes had gained four things they wanted.

WANT FOUR POINTS
These are better job opportunities, desegregation of all downtown public facilities, formation of a biracial committee with authority to solve all racial problems, and the dropping of charges against the arrested demonstrators.

The riots at Ole Miss last fall, in Little Rock in 1957, and these demonstrations now are new in the experiences of U.S. Presidents since Negroes were rendered helpless to fight for equal treatment until the Supreme Court in 1954 ruled out public school segregation.

Kennedy, like President Eisenhower, has been very cautious about taking strong positions in these critical racial situations until compelled to by events. Kennedy demonstrated this at Ole Miss.

When he sent the marshals in with Meredith to protect him it was a half-measure which didn't work, as the riots proved — although Meredith was unharmed. In the end he had to use troops.

Eisenhower demonstrated even more caution in the events leading up to the Little Rock explosion. On July 17 of that year he had told reporters he could imagine no circumstances "that would ever induce me to send federal troops—to enforce the orders of a court." That left him wide open.

The Little Rock racists took

CEILING SEEN ON WAGE HIKE

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel labor contract talks probably will result in increased employment costs of between 2 and 3 per cent, Iron Age predicted today.

The trade publication said this figure will be reached only after hard bargaining.

The United Steelworkers Union has been free to reopen its contract for wage negotiations since May 1 but hasn't done so.

Iron Age said many in the steel industry believe 2 per cent is the maximum that can be granted and keep the cost within productivity gains.

It added the opinion that the union would not consent to anything under the Kennedy Administration's 3 per cent guideline "without a bitter struggle at the bargaining table."

In terms of money, a 2 per cent increase would mean roughly 8 cents an hour.

Iron Age said steel consumption in the current quarter could approach 20 million tons, the highest in history.

ENGLEWOOD'S RACIAL FUSS IS CONTINUING

ENGLEWOOD N.J. (AP) — A group of Negro parents opposing a racial imbalance in this community's schools said 20 of their children would return to Cleveland Elementary School again today.

Fourteen Negro children entered the predominantly white school Tuesday and attended classes without registering. Principal Thorleif Henrickson had denied them admission, but when they sat on the school steps he ordered a back door opened and the Negroes filed in with the regular pupils.

Eight of the Negro children, who are enrolled in the almost all-Negro Lincoln Elementary School, had entered classes Monday. They got into the school through a side door while their parents were talking to the principal.

The integration group previously had tried without success to register the children at all three of the schools that have predominantly white enrollments.

The Board of Education said Henrickson had permitted the children to enter "to avoid the possibility of an incident in which some child might be injured."

Both Henrickson and the Board of Education said, however, that the Negro children were allowed only as visitors and not as class members.

During the lunch period, about 20 white children played with the Negro children on the slides and swings. An older Negro boy joined in a softball game.

CAB EXAMINES ROUTE CHANGE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board has decided to take a second look at an examiner's decision on a series of air route transfers in the northeast between Trans-World, Allegheny, and Mohawk airlines.

The parties involved were invited Tuesday to file briefs by June 6 for a review of the initial findings.

Ordered into effect immediately, however, was the examiner's denial of applications from Allegheny and Mohawk for authorization to make nonstop flights between Buffalo, N. Y., and Scranton-Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The rest of the examiner's recommendations, now up for review, would:

1. Give TWA non-stop authorization between Pittsburgh and Boston.
2. Give Mohawk a new route between Pittsburgh and Boston via Elmira-Corning, Binghamton-Endicott-Johnson City, and Albany, N. Y., and Springfield-Westfield, Mass.
3. Delete Scranton-Wilkes-Barre from America's route.

Law Protects Flower Sales

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton signed into law today a bill making it illegal to sell the artificial flower of the Jewish War Veterans without authorization.

The organization's insignia is the corn flower. Persons convicted of unauthorized sales would be subject to a fine up to $50, or imprisonment of up to 10 days.

A similar penalty applies to unauthorized sales of flowers of other veterans organizations.

The governor also signed a

NEGRO OFFERED JOB AS PILOT

DENVER (AP) — Marlon D. Green says he is delighted to be offered a job that would make him the first Negro pilot for a United States airline.

The offer was made by Continental Airlines, two weeks after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that states can forbid discriminatory hiring by interstate carriers. The court upheld Green's contention that he was denied a job by Continental solely because he is a Negro.

Green, 33, said he would accept Continental's job "if Mr. Taylor measure permitting commissioners in the 10 fourth class counties to appoint members of their boards of assessments and revision of taxes. The law, effective immediately, also requires minority representation on the boards.

A third bill signed by the governor corrects technical procedures for validating borough ordinances.

Farmer Is Saved By Stray Collie

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP)—Curtis Gene Riggs, 38, may owe his life to the stray collie he took in several weeks ago.

The dog was with Riggs on his farm near here Tuesday when some plowshares Riggs was hauling on his tractor slipped and pinned a leg against a tractor wheel. He was painfully injured and unable to move.

The dog led rescuers to his master. Hospital physicians said Riggs might have bled to death had he not been found quickly.

(T. Rayber Taylor of Denver, Green's attorney) and I judge that we have here a bona fide offer of employment."

Green left the Air Force in 1957 after learning that major airlines had agreed to bar racial discrimination in hiring flight crews.

Green moved to Denver from Lansing, Mich., Sunday with his wife, Eleanor, and their six children. He began work April 29 as a $9,475-a-year pilot for the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation.

AMENDMENTS
COMING UP ON SCHOOL BILL

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Senate Education Committee next Tuesday will receive several proposed amendments to the Scranton administration's compulsory school reorganization bill.

Lawmakers said the amendments are guidelines to measure a comprehensive program of education. They were drawn up Tuesday by members of both the Senate and House committees.

One of the amendments calls for the exemption from reorganization of any district proving itself "capable of providing a comprehensive program of education."

WOULD CUT QUALITY

Under the administration bill, a district would have to show that it offered "a comprehensive program of quality education" at the present time to be exempt.

The changes outlined by committee members in both Houses would eliminate the word "quality" from the administration plan.

The informal joint committee has been studying the Scranton bill for several weeks. The key decision reached Tuesday was on a set of guidelines for the proposed council of basic education to follow in determining whether a district is capable of offering a comprehensive program. These guidelines were:

PROPOSED GUIDELINES

—Diversity of programs and curricular offerings.

—Financial resources.

—Special arrangements for academically talented pupils.

—Quality and quantity of faculty and staff.

—Provision of special education.

—Availability of buildings and facilities, including libraries and instructional aids for all grades, and —Guidance and counselling services.

"TOO NEBULOUS"

There were no such guidelines for measuring quality in the bill submitted by the administration. Furthermore, objections had been made that quality was too nebulous a word to define.

The proposed revisions also would eliminate the 2,500-pupil population minimum in the Scranton bill.

That would leave 4,000 pupils as the minimum requirement but would give the council more freedom in granting exemptions to districts with special problems, such as potential growth, topography, location of existing school buildings.

PERMIT EXPIRATION

In both the Scranton proposal and the 1961 act, exemptions were permitted under these conditions, but only to a minimum of 2,500 pupils.

However, Scranton had added further exemption for "quality" districts, with no population minimum.

Whether or not the Senate committee and the legislature eventually would approve the revised plan was not certain.

The agreement reached by the members of the House and Senate committees is not binding on either committee when the bill

SONG TITLE
HAD START IN COMMERCIAL

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—A new rock 'n' roll record called "Mother, Please" is achieving a certain amount of popularity with the young crowd these days, but is most notable for the fact that it borrows its title and theme from a semiretired television commercial.

The commercial itself was launched over a year ago, part of a batch advertising a headache remedy. It shows a young woman snapping irritably: "Mother, PLEASE! I'd rather do it myself!" Then, later, headache gone, she offers her mother a cup of tea and there is a smiling fade-out.

There were others in the initial series: a young mother screaming at her child; a young husband snarling at his wife about their son's bicycle in the driveway; a woman annoyed at the neighborhood kids.

NEW BATCH NOW

Now, Mother and the others are rarely seen because a new batch of irritable headache sufferers commercials has been cooked up. But "Mother, Please" continues to have impact. It is a gag-line used by television comedians and teen-agers. It has been the basis for a number of comedy sketches.

"It's curious the way that thing caught on and stays around," commented an advertising executive. "I suppose it just proves that by the time the client starts pounding the desk and demanding new copy in his commercials, the good old public is barely beginning to notice the old ones."

Nobody seems to have figured comes up for formal committee action.

STILL SEEK REPEAL

Sen. Robert O. Beers, R-York, a member of the Senate committee, has said he is committed to oppose all compulsory school reorganization programs. He campaigned last year on a platform that included repeal of the 1961 reorganization act.

There reportedly were reservations about both the administration's original proposal and the revised plan among other committee members.

If the bill passes the Senate it may find even stiffer opposition in the House, where an estimated 95 per cent of the Republican members stated a preference for repeal of the 1961 act when the issue was discussed several months ago at a private caucus.

Telstar Whizzes
Through Heavens

NEW YORK (AP)—The Telstar communications satellite whizzed through the heavens today after working perfectly in relaying television pictures between the United States and Europe.

The pictures that bounced back to the sending station at Andover, Maine, Tuesday night were described as "magnificent—very, very clear."

Tonight a color television transmission is planned between the continents.

Tuesday night's test of the satellite, launched into perfect orbit earlier in the day from Cape Canaveral, was pronounced a huge success after it relayed a taped television test program to Europe.

TRUMAN BUSY
ON BIRTHDAY

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Harry S. Truman, who says he wishes people would forget about his birthdays, turns 79 today—obviously tickled they remember. The anniversaries "only make me a year older," he remarked Tuesday, but you wouldn't know it, unless you observed that he doesn't walk quite as much as he used to.

The former president was to begin a busy day by greeting 10,000 or more fellow Baptists at Municipal Auditorium. They are messengers (delegates) to the 1963 Southern Baptist Convention.

At a luncheon in a downtown hotel he expects to hear, by telephone, from President Kennedy, Chief Justice Earl Warren and comedian Jack Benny, an old friend who delights in exchanging quips with Truman.

On the guest list for the luncheon were Govs. John M. Dalton of Missouri and Frank B. Morrison of Nebraska; Abraham Harman, Israel's ambassador to the United States; Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.; Lawrence W. Wetherby, former governor of Kentucky; and Charles Murphy, undersecretary of agriculture.

Truman was laid up a while last January after a hernia operation, but since his recovery he's been busier than ever.

AGREEMENT ON NATO NUCLEAR FORCE IS NEAR

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials said today an allied agreement to create a multilateral NATO nuclear force armed with Polaris missiles on surface ships may be ready for signing by the time President Kennedy visits Europe late next month.

Spokesmen for the West German government announced Tuesday that West Germany had dropped its objections to using surface ships instead of submarines as carriers for the nuclear warhead missiles.

The whole project, initiated by the United States, had appeared in doubt earlier this year because of strong European opposition to building a surface fleet. Allied governments interested in the force had understood that Polaris submarines would be the missile carriers.

1ST REACTION NEGATIVE

When the United States in effect switched signals early this year and came out for surface vessels, the first allied reaction in Europe was negative. The allies felt that surface ships would be far more vulnerable. For a time, this was substantially the West German view.

In recent weeks, President Kennedy's special negotiator, Ambassador Livingston T. Merchant, and naval experts have concentrated on building up the U.S. case for surface ships—a fleet which could be developed quicker and cheaper than submarines.

For a week or so U.S. officials have understood that German experts finally had agreed that wide dispersion and frequent shifting of the Polaris surface ships around the coasts of Western Europe would provide about all the protection necessary for the vessels.

General Gruenther To Retire From R.C.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The president of the American Red Cross since 1957, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, plans to retire next March 31.

Gruenther, who will be 65 next March 3, announced his retirement Tuesday at a general session of the organization's 38th annual convention.

His successor probably will be chosen in October by the 50-member board of governors in Washington.

Gen. Gruenther did not reveal his post-retirement plans.

General Gruenther, a close friend of General Eisenhower, has visited here on a number of occasions.

HYANNIS, Neb. (AP)—Compas have been ordered installed in all Hyannis fire trucks, and with reason.

Not long ago volunteer firemen started out to extinguish four grass fires caused by lightning deep in the sparsely populated Sand Hills.

They not only failed to locate the fires; they got lost themselves and had to enlist the help of a rancher to lead them back to the highway.

8 NATIONS IN PLAN

As presently conceived, on the basis of known allied interest, the fleet off perhaps 20 ships with a total of perhaps 200 missiles would be a jointly owned and manned eight-nation force under NATO direction and military control. In effect, participation would give West Germany and the other countries taking part a voice in nuclear strategy and a finger on the nuclear trigger.

The eight nations are the United States, Britain, West Germany, Italy, Greece, Turkey, the Netherlands and Belgium.

LONG TAX TRIAL NEARING CLOSE

By DAVE LEHERR

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP)—The U.S. government called rebuttal witnesses today as the income tax evasion trial of two Luzerne County mining companies and four individuals moved into its final stages.

The defense rested its case Tuesday after three days of testimony in the more than six-week-old trial. Closing arguments will follow government rebuttals. The case is expected to go to the jury of six men and six women some time Thursday or Friday.

The defense presented only eight witnesses compared to more than 80 for the government.

Mrs. Gladys Phillips, secretary to the chief of intelligence, Internal Revenue Service, Scranton, appeared Tuesday as the government's first rebuttal witness.

She produced a transcript off an interview between IRS agents and Thomas W. Melson, a public accountant, Sept. 29, 1959.

The government contends certain parts of the transcript contradict testimony given by Melson as a defense witness in the trial, concerning percentage depletions on the 1957 tax returns of one of the companies on trial.

D.C. WATCHING RACE TROUBLE IN ALABAMA

By LOUIS G. PANOS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration leaders resume their long-distance vigil today over the tense racial situation in Birmingham, Ala., with President Kennedy on record as hoping for a local solution.

The President and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, his brother, worked on a late standby basis at the White House Tuesday night, awaiting reports from Justice Department officials in Birmingham.

Headed by Burke Marshall, assistant attorney general in charge of the department's Civil Rights Division, these officials sought to promote a solution to the Birmingham problem through face-to-face discussions by local white and Negro leaders.

LEADERS TO MEET

Even as state patrolmen arrived in Birmingham Tuesday to help control mass Negro demonstrations against segregation in the city, the White House reported that Marshall had succeeded in bringing leaders of both races together for their first meeting.

The Justice Department remained silent on what progress, if any, was made at the session. But Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant White House news secretary, told reporters: "The President continues to hope that this situation can be resolved by the people of Birmingham themselves and this, of course, would be the most ideal solution."

Government officials refused to discuss any possible government action in the event of failure of local leaders to achieve peaceful settlement of the dispute.

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP)—Lou Johnson, 82, a pioneer in the development of the outboard motor and a founder of Johnson Motors Co. of Waukegan, Ill., died Monday. Johnson and a brother, Harry, built the first Johnson motor when they were teen-agers in Elftingham, Ill. He retired in 1935.

TOLLEN MAY CHANGE MIND

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pennsylvania's commissioner of public assistance, William B. Tollen, says he will reconsider his recent decision not to present himself as a candidate for director of welfare in the District of Columbia.

Tollen said Tuesday he changed his mind after talking with John B. Duncan, one of the district's three commissioners.

Earlier, Tollen had withdrawn following a meeting with Sen. Byrd, D-W.Va., chairman of the Senate appropriations subcommittee, which holds the district's purse-strings.

Tollen had said "There is an unbridgeable chasm between me and the senator on our philosophy about two major aspects of the welfare program."

And he had added that "no decent, humane welfare administrator" could work under the rules laid down by Byrd.

Says Birmingham Effort Is Drive For Breakthrough

EDITOR'S NOTE — Reiman Morin has won two Pulitzer Prizes as an Associated Press reporter, one for reporting of the Little Rock, Ark., integration crisis. He has covered the civil rights campaign from the beginning—Little Rock, Clinton, Tenn., Oxford, Miss., and now Birmingham.

By REIMAN MORIN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Little Rock was one school, Central High, and eight Negro children. Oxford was one Negro student, James H. Meredith, enrolling in the University of Mississippi.

Birmingham is a whole city, a bright, handsome community of nearly 350,000 in the heart of the Deep South—the biggest target, by far, of desegregationists in the anguished and continuing battle over civil rights.

This is what gives special meaning to the quiet words of a Negro clergyman: "If we break through here, we break through everywhere."

CORE OF THE STORY

This is the core of the story in Birmingham today, the determined drive for a breakthrough.

Negro leaders say it means, primarily, desegregation of downtown eating places, equal job opportunities, the hiring of qualified —they stress the adjective—Negroes in downtown stores.

"The organization won't settle for less than 80 per cent desegregation downtown," said one. He added, "We're not even talking about the schools now, just the stores and the lunchrooms."

CHURCH JAMMED

The conversation takes place in the corridor of the Baptist church at 16th Street and 6th Avenue, one center of the "breakthrough movement."

The church is jam-packed, on the ground floor and the balcony, with about 1,400 Negroes. Others listen through partly opened side and front doors.

They applaud loudly when the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., symbolic leader of the civil rights movement, calls on President Kennedy to "take a forthright stand."

They begin singing, clapping with the rhythm of a hymn, "something's got a hold of me."

JAILS FILLED

They seem good humored. They laugh and wave their palm-leaf fans when another speaker describes an incident in Ingram Park, fronting the church, a center of the disturbances in Birmingham in the past few days.

"These children," he says, "ran after the policeman so that he would arrest them. But he wouldn't arrest them no matter how hard they ran."

The Birmingham jails already are filled to capacity. More than 2,400 Negroes have been arrested in the past few days.

STREETS QUIET

King goes to two other churches. They, too, are packed to the roof. There is more singing and more exhorting.

The streets of Birmingham are supremely quiet. It is not much of a night-life city, anyway, and it looks little different now than on any night. There are no clusters of men on the street corners—as there were in the first few nights in Oxford after Meredith entered the university—and no signs of tensions as there were at Little Rock.

Alabama state troopers reinforce Birmingham police as racial demonstrations continue.

The House hearings on the Kennedy administration's civil rights program begin against a background of racial unrest.

The immediate threat of war between the Dominican Republic and Haiti appears to be receding but tension still is high.

An Allied agreement to create a multination NATO nuclear force may be ready for signing by the time President Kennedy visits Europe.

FULTON FACES LABOR CHARGE IN DISMISSALS

PITTSBURGH (AP)—U. S. Rep. James G. Fulton, R-Pa., and officers of his six weekly newspapers in the Pittsburgh district face charges of unfair labor practices in connection with the dismissal of eight employees.

The Independent Newspaper Association, composed of employees of the weeklies, filed a petition Tuesday with the National Labor Relations Board.

The petition asserts that Fulton and his representatives dismissed eight employees April 30 "because they engaged in concerted activities with other employees . . . for the purpose of collective bargaining and other mutual aid and protection and in order to discourage said concerted activities."

It also charges that since April 15 the congressman and his representatives have "dominated and interfered with . . . the administration of the Independent Newspaper Association, a labor organization."

Fulton of suburban Dormont, who represents the 27th Congressional District, could not be reached for comment.

The number employees of Pittsburgh Suburban Community Newspapers, Fulton's firm, was listed as 70.

The newspapers are The Mount Lebanon News, Chartiers Valley Times Progress, East Liberty Tribune, Boro News in Bethel Borough, The News in Brentwood, and The News Progress in Peters Township, Washington County.

WANTS PROBE OF SUB BLAZE

GROTON, Conn. (AP)—Demands for an investigation were voiced today after a flash fire of undetermined origin killed three workers aboard the nuclear submarine Flasher Tuesday.

Two workers were injured, one critically.

The Flasher, an attack submarine of the Thresher class, caught fire at the docks of its builder, the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp.

The accident is not expected to delay the Flasher's launching, scheduled for June 22.

The Thresher disappeared in the Atlantic Ocean April 10 with 129 men aboard.

"All submarines of this class should be given a thorough going over," Rep. William L. St. Onge, D-Conn., said in Washington.

Electric Boat announced it was conducting its own investigation into the fire.

The blaze broke out before noon in an 8-by-9 foot flooding tank in the ship's stern. The fire was brought under control in minutes and damage was described as negligible.

RIOTERS CALM AT PRINCETON

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—Only an occasional firecracker broke the stillness Tuesday night in this university town where Princeton students had gone on their most destructive springtime rampage in a decade.

One sobering factor was an announcement by Dr. Robert Goheen, university president, that the student body will pay for all damage caused by the nearly 2,000 undergraduates who rioted during the wee hours Tuesday. Damage estimates run to several thousand dollars.

During three hectic and destructive hours, the rioters ripped up.

Company Closes Coal Pipeline

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Consolidation Coal Co. has announced plans to close a 108-mile coal pipeline in Ohio because of the reduction of coal-hauling rates by railroads.

However, Consol and the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., the customer that received the coal by pipeline, said Tuesday the pipeline will be maintained on a stand-by basis.

The firms also said "both the feasibility and economy of pipeline operation" is demonstrated by the fact that it has carried more than 6.5 million tons of coal since being built in 1957.

DEM IS UPSET BY M'KELDIN

BALTIMORE (AP)—Republican Theodore R. McKeldin surmounted a 4-1 Democratic registration Tuesday to upset incumbent Mayor Philip H. Goodman, 109,407 votes to 105,018 in unofficial totals.

McKeldin, 62, was elected mayor in 1943 and governor in 1954 and 1958.

A running mate, Hyman Pressman, was elected comptroller. He polled 104,358 votes to Henry Gerkenroeder's 99,008. Pressman, a registered Democrat, lost to Gerkenroeder by little more than 1,000 votes in the Democratic primary March 5.

He was asked to join the GOP ticket when W. Rae Dempsey stepped down as candidate in the face of a grand jury investigation of a company he once headed.

Thomas D'Alessandro III, the son of a former mayor, polled the highest number of votes, 135,163 to 67,794 for Republican Robert J. Gerstung for City Council president.

Democrats easily retained control of the 20-member City Council.

MUST BOOST STRIP MINING

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pennsylvania must encourage a healthy strip mining industry, an official of the Pennsylvania Conservation Association said today.

"In many instances, the industry has left the land in better condition and more productive than it was prior to stripping," said Conservation Director W. G. Jones in a paper presented to the coal convention of the American Mining Congress.

"It has aided in flood control. It has immensely benefited wild life and game throughout the state by the planting of shrubs and game food. All these things of benefit to the state are aside from

Hearing Today For Accused Bandit

HARRISBURG (AP)—Another hearing was set today for Edward J. Fitzgerald, 31, of Newark, N.J., charged with the $1,465 holdup of the Citizens Trust Bank branch.

Fitzgerald was to be brought before Alderman John L. Madden Jr., on a charge of violating the uniform firearms code. A similar charge was not pressed at a hearing Tuesday because of a technical error although Fitzgerald was held for grand jury action on a charge of armed robbery.

Dist. Atty. Martin H. Lock said here was a possibility that Fitzgerald would be turned over to federal authorities later in the day. The Dauphin County official said he believed the FBI had a warrant for Fitzgerald's arrest.

INDONESIA'S REDS COUNTED WITH CHINESE

By SPENCER DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP) — High American officials are now counting Indonesia's Communist party — the largest outside of the Iron Curtain countries — in Peking's camp in the leadership dispute between the Soviet Union and Communist China.

Authoritative sources said that the switch of Indonesian Reds to the Chinese hard line must be considered one of the major Soviet disappointments of the past year and a cause for a serious reappraisal inside the Kremlin.

NOT PLEASED HERE

The development was no source of particular satisfaction to Washington and other non-Communist capitals. Under pressure from the PKI—Partei Komunis Indonesia—Indonesian President Sukarno appears to have veered increasingly away from the neutral foreign policy he had long proclaimed.

U.S. officials were particularly unhappy about a recent Afro-Asian journalists conference which opened with a keynote address by Sukarno. The conference appeared to be under the control of the PKI and ended with a volley of resolutions denouncing the United States in a virtual carbon copy of Peking's sharpest anti-American propaganda charges.

The conference was similar to the Chinese Communist-engineered meeting in Moscow, Tanganyika. For a second time, the Soviet Union was frozen out on the grounds that it was not an Asian power and could not be represented at an Afro-Asian meeting.

The United States has tried, apparently without dramatic success, to coax Indonesia away from the Communist camp.

Paul Pender Will Retire From Ring

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Pender, a master craftsman who never gained full recognition, has abandoned his claim to a tiny segment of the world middleweight boxing championship.

"The practically impossible situation of trying to solve dual claims to the middleweight title," was one of the principal reasons Pender listed in announcing his retirement.

His share of the world title, once recognized in New York, Massachusetts and Europe, has dwindled to his home state of Massachusetts. Dick Tiger of Nigeria is recognized elsewhere.

Pender said he had offered to fight Tiger in Nigeria to settle the middleweight dispute, "but I got no immediate response."

Today In Harrisburg

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
HARRISBURG (AP)—State Agriculture Secretary Leland H. Bull says he hopes to see a large turnout among Pennsylvania wheat farmers in the national referendum on marketing controls May 21.

In the past only a small handful of the Commonwealth's wheat growers have voted in the annual referendum. Those who voted invariably opposed controls.

HARRISBURG (AP)—Christian H. Brandt is the new director of the state Banking Bureau at an annual salary of $13,000.

Gustav V. Mattson, chief bank examiner in the Banking Department's Harrisburg bureau, was promoted at the same time Tuesday to assistant director of the bureau, succeeding Brandt. Mattson's salary will be $12,000-a-year.

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state Traffic Safety Bureau says it plans to complete action in the cases of 39 Lancaster County persons convicted of drunken driving, but whose files were misplaced.

Traffic Safety Director Harry Brainerd said Tuesday investigation of the misplaced material indicated it was placed in the inactive files last October by mistake. Brainerd said the cases involved persons convicted in Lancaster County courts. The names were forwarded to the state for license revocation or other action called for in the convictions.

SOVIET SPY SAYS BRITON HAD TOP ROLE

By PRESTON GROVER
MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet co-defendant of confessed British spy Greville Wynne disputed today the Briton's claim that he was only a courier for the information the Russian collected for Britain and the United States.

"He was not only a messenger. Wynne must not minimize his role," former Soviet scientific official Oleg Penkovsky told the military court in the second day of the Soviet show trial.

Apparently reading from notes, Penkovsky said Wynne had constantly discussed espionage activities with him and coached him in identifying various British and American diplomats he had to contact.

CHANGED CLAIM

Wynne appeared to change his claim somewhat when one of the three Soviet army judges then asked him if he still felt he only served as a messenger.

"Chiefly, I was to help Penkovsky during his stay in London," Wynne replied clearly and firmly. "My actual role I did not fully realize until I came here."

Wynne, 42, a businessman who represented British engineering firms on trips to the Soviet Union, admitted Tuesday that he brought packages to Penkovsky and delivered packages from him to British consular officer Roderick Chisholm and to Chisholm's wife.

Wynne contended he did not know that the packages for the Russian contained espionage instructions and equipment, and that the packages he received contained exposed film.

DENIES CONNECTION

Chisholm, who returned to London several months ago, denied everything at his home in London. "It looks like a frame-up," he said.

Wynne and Penkovsky, 43, a colonel in the Soviet army reserve, pleaded guilty to charges of espionage against the Soviet Union. The Russian also pleaded guilty to a charge of high treason.

Informants said the trial will continue until Saturday. Both men could be sentenced to death by a firing squad. Wynne is expected to get a long prison sentence.

MANILA (AP)—Forty-one ships and 14,000 men completed today a 10-day test of the naval strength of members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Exercise Sea Serpent, conducted in the South China Sea off the Southeast Asian peninsula, coincided with the threat of renewed civil war in Laos although the exercise was planned long before the outbreak of fighting there.

GOVERNOR

Back at the press club Lawrence, now chairman of President Kennedy's Committee on Equal Opportunity in Housing, said he felt Scranton was trying to be a good governor.

"... But I think the (Republican) legislative leaders are in control of the situation," he said.

Professing reluctance to pick on the new administration, Lawrence said: "I felt it was incumbent on me to answer" Scranton's claim

Lawrence Trades Punches With Scranton's Regime

HARRISBURG (AP) — Former Gov. David L. Lawrence traded political punches with the Scranton administration Tuesday.

The barrage of charges and countercharges brought back memories of the 1962 election campaign. The only difference was this time the Republicans were the "ins" and the Democrats were the "outs."

Lawrence, a Democrat, used as his forum the Capitol Hill Press Club where he accused what he called "the old guard" of the Republican party of taking control of state government.

"There's no question that's what is happening," Lawrence told newsmen.

GOP SLAPS BACK

It was his first news conference in Harrisburg since turning over control of the commonwealth to Republican William W. Scranton last Jan. 15. Lawrence, who was unable to succeed himself as governor, is now with the Kennedy administration in Washington.

Meanwhile, on Capitol Hill a few blocks away from the press club, the Scranton administration was reiterating its charges that the Democrats under Lawrence had given the people a false impression of the fiscal status of the state.

Budget Secretary Martin H. Brackbill, in a memorandum to Gov. Scranton, accused the Lawrence people of giving an incomplete fiscal report at the turn of the year.

DIFFERENCE ON BALANCE

The Lawrence administration claimed that as of Dec. 31, 1962, there was a $10,342,000 surplus in the budget.

But Brackbill, in detailing figures released by Scranton shortly after his inauguration, said in his memo:

"... by the Lawrence administration's own estimates of additional lapses, shortage of revenue and estimated appropriation deficiencies there was projected a 1962-63 deficit of more than $17,364,000 at the very time it was stating publicly there was a surplus."

The Scranton administration predicts it will end the fiscal year June 30 with a $21 million deficit and blames the Lawrence administration for the bulk of the shortage.

Residents of the community who wish to enroll in the Brothers of Brush may do so by contacting Topper's or Dan Greenholt's barber shops or any of the service clubs in McSherrystown. The chapters are open to all residents of McSherrystown and the surrounding areas.

Membership is cheaper than abstaining, it was pointed out at the meeting when it was announced that shavers' permits will sell for $2 and derby hats for boys will be available at $1 each.

TOKYO (AP) — Gen. Chang Chun, longtime associate and adviser to Chiang Kai-shek, said emphatically today that Red China does not have the capability of producing an atom bomb alone.

HANGAR BURNS AT W. CHESTER

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—A 160-foot long hangar and six of some 45 planes stored there were destroyed by fire at the West Chester Airport in nearby West Goshen Township today.

David Wright, owner of the hangar, located on a one-time 211-acre farm, estimated damage to the building at $15,000. There was no immediate estimate of the damage to the planes.

Fire officials saved more than 30 other planes in the hangar, which was leased by Wright to Robert Shannon of Paoli, Pa. Wright, who discovered the fire, said two boats stored in the hangar also were destroyed.

Some 75 men and 10 pieces of apparatus from three fire companies fought the blaze, using water from a swimming pool in the rear of a nearby apartment building. The hangar reportedly was almost a total mass of flames when the firemen arrived on the scene.

Wright said owners of the planed space in the hangar as did the owners of the boats. There was no immediate announcement on the cause of the fire, which apparently started in the tower section of the hangar.

13,764 Persons Cared For By Catholic Charities, Inc.

The 24th annual report of the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, Inc., revealed that 13,764 persons were cared for by the agency. The report was presented at the annual meeting of the diocesan board of directors, held recently at the office of the Most Rev. George L. Leech, D.D., J.C.D., bishop of Harrisburg.

To meet the growing needs of the diocese, the corporation established an office in Gettysburg several months ago to care for the needs in Adams and Franklin Counties. Other offices are located in Harrisburg, York, Lancaster, Lebanon and Shamokin.

The following officers were elected: President, the Most Rev. George L. Leech, D.D., J.C.D.; first vice president, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis A. Kirchner, V.G.; second vice president, the Rev. William P. Bridy; secretary-treasurer, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Damian E. McGovern, J.C.L., all of Harrisburg.

In the diocese 804 children were served through the various programs of the agency, Rev. Fr. Bridy, diocesan director, reported. During the year ending December 31, 1962, 129 children resided in the diocesan homes for children; 76 boys in Paradise School, Abbotstown; 53 girls in Sylvan Heights Home. One hundred fifty-one children were discharged, 77 of these being reunited with parents or relatives.

During the year the unwed mother caseload tallied 112; 35 children were placed for adoption and 44 adoptive placements became legal.

The foster home program provided homes for 201 children; 195 foster homes were utilized during the year.

St. Luke's Guidance Clinic served 135 children and conducted more than 100 psychological tests.

The agency has supervised 11 unaccompanied Cuban refugees who are in homes in the 15-county area of the diocese. The transient program provided 3,454 meals to 2,292 persons, as well as 10,932 articles of clothing. The report showed an increase of 29,581 pounds over last year's amount of clothing collected at the annual Thanksgiving clothing collection.

The social service work in the diocese is conducted by the Missionary Servants of the Most Blessed Trinity, augmented by a lay and volunteer staff.

Through its programs and institutions in the diocese, the corporation was responsible for $319,855.

Space Age Lures Young Set From Study Of Good Music

Editor's Note: Understanding and enjoyment of good music are greatly improved in this country, but the scientific age may mean hard times for the performance of classical works in the years ahead, believes the concertmaster of the Philadelphia orchestra. He tells, in this AP Spotlight story, why he feels moon dreams are a big threat to classical music.

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If there's one thing that's giving good music a hard time it's the lure of the space age, says Anshel Brusilow, concertmaster of the Philadelphia orchestra.

And the problem, in his estimation, goes to the roots of the art, in the homes where moon dreams have supplanted juvenile practice on piano, violin or horn.

So far as the understanding and enjoyment of music are concerned, as the 34-year-old Brusilow sees it, this country has improved—all part of what he regards as a strong, solid growth of culture generally.

TEACHING FALLS

The teaching of music, on the other hand, has fallen behind, in quantity.

"In other times," Brusilow said, "most kids learned to play some musical instrument, maybe not too well, but at least with feeling. Not so today."

"That this is no small cause for concern is illustrated by the fact that in a few years there will be a lack of players, especially of string players, in most of our major orchestras."

"The big reason for this teaching lag, in my opinion," he continued, "is that the youngsters are all wrapped up in our scientific age, bemused with the appeals to outer space adventure, with the abundance of science fiction. The children simply can't spare the time to study music. Which is all the more the pity because we have a paradoxical situation — while fewer youngsters are studying music more of them are now being brought up in a tradition of classical music, as appreciators rather than as participants."

RUGGED FUTURE

Brusilow, one of the nation's youngest concertmasters, conceded that the way must seem rugged indeed to the young, except for the prodigies. He continued:

"The average Philadelphia orchestra member makes perhaps $10,000 a year, counting income from teaching, solo dates and a variety of other outside jobs that most of the players feel they must take, the cost of living and taxes being what they are."

"Now let's see what our player had to do to arrive at that relatively modest eminence. He had to have a God-given talent to start with, make no mistake about that. He had to devote years to hard study, with no short cuts, no easy ways. Then more years of study and of experience before reaching the peak."

"No wonder many promising youngsters are discouraged. Where can they go in music these days? How can they be artists and still go on eating?"

"There are no pat answers, of course. But somehow we must find a way of getting more boys and girls interested in studying music."

"If music is really in the blood the discouragement can be overcome. It is being overcome now among the more determined. In spite of all the drawbacks, it's absolutely true that if you're good, really good, there's always room at the top—eventually."

Moreover, Brusilow said, in certain ways today's talented beginner has more things going for him. He explained:

"Notably, the colleges have improved their musical standards. And music's minor leagues—the smaller cities with good orchestras and the various organizations, both men's and women's, that have their own orchestras—provide opportunities for the not-so-advanced to build the experience which every orchestral musician must have. The Philadelphia orchestra gives 140 concerts a year, and there's not much time to rehearse. So it's obvious our musicians must know their classics."

NEED TO STUDY

"Putting aside career considerations," he went on, "there is still every good reason for wanting our children to study music, to be able to play an instrument, to sing. Not all musicians need be stars. A statesman may paint and be no Picasso. A banker may compose a concerto and not be, in the fullest sense, a professional. A cultured society needs the gifted amateur, the semi-pro, the person who finds reward in his own artistic expression."

Brusilow believes that great solo careers are pretty much a thing of the past. "A Van Cliburn is a rarity," he said.

That prompted a discussion of competitions.

"I am not a believer in contests and competitions, Cliburn notwithstanding," Brusilow said. "My chief objection to them is that they are not a true test of skill and scope. Certain performers make excellent contestants. They usually win. But they are limited in range. Their repertoire is constricted. They aim and train for set performances."

LACK PREPARATION

"Later, when it comes to doing concerts, they are unprepared to cope with the broader demands. Or, if they are prepared, they are too old."

Turning to more personal topics, Brusilow commented: "It's said that musicians are strange people. Believe me, it's true. Our world is a kind of never-never land. Sometimes it's like the old saying about a man's not being able to live with a woman and at the same time being unable to live without one."

"Many, many musicians vow they'll never let their children go into their profession. You'd be surprised, though, at how many of those same kids do go into music and love it."

As for Brusilow himself, a dark, good-looking, always amiable man, music, naturally, is his life, but not all of it. It is extraordinary what he crowds into his days and despite it all appear unhurried, unruffled, untired.

ORMANDY PRAISE

Maestro Eugene Ormandy clearly takes great pride in him. In an informal gathering backstage the famed conductor said of him, with an affectionate smile, "He's the greatest living concertmaster—and a fine conductor, too."

As concertmaster, Brusilow is responsible for such technical matters as bowing and phrasing in the violin section and playing whatever incidental solo violin passages are called for in the various scores. He also conducts the orchestra from time to time.

A native of Philadelphia and a product of its Curtis Institute of Music, Brusilow came to the Philadelphia orchestra in 1959. Just before that he was associate concertmaster with the Cleveland orchestra, and before that assistant conductor of the New Orleans symphony. A violin pupil from the age of six, he made his debut at the Academy of Music here at 16. He has appeared as soloist with most of the country's leading orchestras.

A little more than a year ago Brusilow formed the Philadelphia Chamber orchestra, giving five concerts a year at the academy. He is in his third year of doing a weekly television show, a half-hour program just before the dinner hour on Saturday. He is host, co-producer and now and then one of the performing artists.

"It has caught on because people like to hear classical music," he says.

That's what they get, about 95 per cent of the time, the fractional concessions being made to the better light opera.

Right now it's hard to keep Brusilow's mind strictly on music. He has taken over as manager of a Little League baseball team, called the Mudhens, 16 boys from eight to 10 years old.

BASEBALL MANAGER

"It's the most fun I've had in a long time," he said. "I've always been a baseball fan and I love to work with children. I have two of my own, a girl and a boy. The boy is so much of a fan, too, that he wears his baseball cap to bed."

Brusilow plays softball, as well. He alternates as pitcher and shortstop on the Philadelphia orchestra's team, which plays college alumni and other groups as the orchestra tours the country in suitable weather.

What about the risk of a hand injury, a serious blow to an orchestral musician?

Said Brusilow: "I suppose we are pressing our luck a bit."

TFX FIGHT MAY COST ADMIRAL JOB AS CHIEF

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. George W. Anderson's strong stand against the Pentagon's position on the controversial TFX fighter plane may have cost him another hitch as chief of naval operations.

That was the consensus today among knowledgeable military officers in the wake of President Kennedy's announcement that Anderson, 56, will be replaced as CNO on Aug. 1 by Adm. David L. McDonald.

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, also spoke out against the version of the TFX approved by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara—but his testimony before a Senate investigating group was much less pointed than Anderson's.

LeMAY STAYS

Kennedy said he will nominate LeMay, 56, for a one-year extension of his tour starting June 30. The normal tour is two years.

This appeared to be the handwriting on the wall for the blunt-spoken founder of the Strategic Air Command. It was rumored earlier this year that LeMay was on his way out as Air Force chief after being at odds with McNamara on the RS70 bomber development and cancellation of the Skybolt air-launched missile.

Some observers suggested the administration chose to ease LeMay out via the one-year extension route rather than clash with LeMay's powerful backing in Congress.

Kennedy has offered Anderson an undisclosed government job. Anderson said he is considering it.

Informed sources said Anderson battled—perhaps to hard for his own good—behind the scenes at the Pentagon, opposing a single model of the TFX fighter plane for both the Navy and Air Force.

They said Anderson backed the Boeing firm's proposal because it contemplated what amounted to two different models tailored to the needs of the individual services.

McNamara chose a rival proposal advanced by General Dynamics Corp on grounds it would produce a better and more economical advanced standard fighter for both the Navy and Air Force. The Senate Investigations subcommittee contends McNamara overrode professional military opinion in picking General Dynamics for the plane development and production, a job potentially worth about $6.5 billion. The General Dynamics bid was higher than Boeing's.

McNamara's differences with the subcommittee have deepened into a bitter feud.

There were reports that Anderson did not hit it off well with Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth on a variety of matters.

Key members of the Senate and House professed to have been caught by surprise at the President's command actions.

In some quarters on Capitol Hill, as well as the Pentagon, there was an opinion that the White House moves were influenced markedly by the TFX issue.

FLUCTUATING POPULATION

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Population at the Robert Neuman home is an uncertain thing. On a recent date 11-year-old Linda Neuman said the count appeared to be 7 adult white rats, 24 young white rats, 5 guinea pigs, 1 parakeet, 1 dog, 5 people and 1 guinea pig on loan from a neighbor. She says in a year 100 new pets have been born and become trading stock.

IDENTIFY YANK SLAIN MONDAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lt. Parker D. Cramer, 26, Wantagh, N.Y., was the American soldier executed by Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam Monday.

The Army disclosed this identity Tuesday, and said Cramer died "as a result of a gunshot wound of the head incurred when he was shot by the Viet Cong."

He is the 73rd American killed in the war in Viet Nam since 1961.

Lt. Cramer and two South Vietnamese companions were slain Monday in rugged country near Saigon after the Communists blew their jeep off the road with a hand grenade, a military spokesman said.

The guerrillas ordered the three out of the vehicle, the spokesman said, and then shot them, according to reports from Saigon.

INTERLOCKING SHOWS ON TV ARE PROPOSED

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—In the very high network and film studio echelons executives are quietly considering the feasibility of having Dr. Gillespie of NBC's "Dr. Kildare" series refer an occasional patient to psychiatrist Stark of NBC's "11th Hour" series next season.

Result of this procedure—novel in television if not in real life—would be to provide a two-part medical drama played out on different series.

If it works, we may well be treated to a whole new cycle of intra-television, inter-locking entertainment—"Ben Casey" sending his neurosurgery patients to the psychiatrists of the new "Breaking Point" series or vice-versa; lawyers Lawrence and Kenneth Preston of "The Defenders" getting their clients acquitted and then sending them on to "The Nurses" for after care.

STIR IMAGINATION

ABC, which has a pair of matching programs called "Arrest" and "Trial" scheduled for next season, is planning something along these lines. These related shows on Sunday nights will tell the story of a man-hunt in the first 45-minute segment, followed by a second 45-minute show about the same man's courtroom experiences.

One can only imagine the possibilities of such a vogue. A fellow who had narrowly escaped hanging on "Bonanza" could ride off into the sunset—to join "Wagon Train" three days later. Or Marshal Dillon could bring his desperado, caught during Saturday's "Gunsmoke," before "The Virginians' Judge Garth the following Wednesday.

NOT ENTIRELY NEW

Cross-references are not exactly new to television. They were favorite devices of the Warner Brothers when they were turning out television detective stories in wholesale lots for ABC.

Often the "Hawaiian Eyes" received jobs from the "77 Sunset Strip" gumshoes. When "Bourbon Street Beat" sank in its channel, a surviving member of the detective partnership moved from New Orleans to join the Hollywood firm—for just one season.

There are advantages in tying together shows in their way but there are big problems in pulling it off. For one thing, there might be a sponsor conflict and networks hate to plug shows on a rival network. Film studios avoid references to the product of another.

FEAR HAUNTS HAITIAN CITY UNDER TYRANT

EDITOR'S NOTE—AP correspondent Morris W. Rosenberg has been in Port au Prince, the Haitian capital, for two weeks. Monday night he flew to the Dominican Republic with this report which Haitian censorship prevented him sending from Port au Prince.

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG
PORT AU PRINCE (AP)—This is a city of fear.

Fear is in the shout of a crouching soldier aiming his rifle and calling "arretez"—halt—in the night.

Fear is in the whisper of a man who passes a foreign friend on a public square, seemingly not recognizing him, but muttering, "There are too many eyes around here."

Fear is in the bravado of dictator Francois Duvalier, proclaiming to a mob of his supporters: "Bullets and machine guns capable of frightening Duvalier do not exist."

HUNTS BODYGUARD

But in the night Duvalier sends his dreaded Tonton Macoute on a ruthless manhunt for Clement Barbot—his former bodyguard, the man who organized his brutal secret police force, broke with Duvalier and now has sworn to kill him.

Fear haunts the Negro, mulatto and white foreigner. There is fear of torture, of death, of invasion, of betrayal.

There is fear of the unknown, of uncontrollable violence, of a cataclysm of savagery of a "Himalaya of corpses" and the country a blazing inferno. This is Duvalier's threat to those who dare oppose him.

These fears are real in Port au Prince because in many ways Haiti seems unreal and incredible in today's Caribbean world.

A priest observes: "Haiti is 90 per cent Catholic, 10 per cent Protestant and 100 per cent voodoo."

ILLITERACY HIGH

Illiteracy is appalling. About one person in 10 can read and write, and some observers believe the rate is even lower. Reliable statistics do not exist.

Infant mortality is known to be tragically high but there are no records. One Haitian doctor estimated the mortality rate as high as 50 per cent.

Intestinal parasites are widespread. Malaria and tuberculosis are the major killers.

The overwhelming majority of most of the estimated four million to five million Haitians are isolated by poverty and ignorance, living in shocking squalor. Political struggles are waged in the capital. But not far from Port au Prince are peasants who do not even know who is president. They are unaware that the world is round. They have never heard of the United States or Europe.

Truck Injuries Kill Dairyman

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Christian H. Kendig, 78, president of the Kendig Dairy in nearby Millersville, which he founded in 1909, died Monday night of injuries suffered during the day when knocked down by a truck driven by his son.

hind the vehicle. One wheel of the truck passed over the elder Kendig's chest.

Besides heading the dairy, he also was president of the Old Guard Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Lancaster.

RECORD DEER KILL

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia hunters bagged a record 38,301 deer in the 1962-63 season, or 2,000 more than the previous record in 1961-62. Does were legal kill in all but two counties east of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

PARENTS LOSE FIGHT FOR BUS FOR CATHOLICS

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Parochial school parents who want public school bus service for their children lost a legislative battle Monday. A leader of a protest movement then sounded retreat on a drive that has enrolled hundreds of Catholic children in Missouri public schools.

Some Catholic parents said it is too late. Their children will attend public schools next fall.

A bill to extend public transportation to private school pupils had failed in a House committee. An effort was made in the House Monday to bring the bill to the floor, but it was tabled by a resounding voice vote.

The parents' revolt started in central Missouri and spread in a limited way to suburbs of Kansas

City and St. Louis. Clarence J. Blume of Jefferson City, instigator of the protest, and chairman of the Cole County Catholic Parents Committee called off the enrollment drive.

A spokesman for parents in the Hickman Mills-Raytown area of Kansas City, said however their enrollments were not made for the current semester.

The largest number of transfers has been in central Missouri. Four hundred students from two Catholic schools entered the public high school at Westphalia, 100 transferred to the Tipton High School and 447 parochial grade school children out of 1,100 in this capital city, transferred to public schools.

JO COPELAND REFUSES TO BE STYLE SLAVE

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you eat, sleep and dream fashion? Worry about being remembered in last year's beaded dress? Struggle to be understated? Look your age?

Well, designed Jo Copeland has been talking about you.

She thinks you've got a lot to learn. And as an influence on the American fashion scene for more than 40 years (although she doesn't look old enough), Miss Copeland figures she ought to know.

You'd think that she'd adore the idea of ultra-style-consciousness as a stimulant to business. But —

"Such women are shallow and insecure," she says with maverick directness. "All women should make the most of themselves, but they should have important things in their lives."

Throughout Miss Copeland's luxurious apartment are signs of the meaningful things in her own life: books, fine paintings, music, flowers. There is proud talk about her grandchildren.

The attractive designer is the first to admit that she's not the grandmother type.

"Nobody should be." The slim, chic woman in smart blonde coiffure crosses a pair of shapely legs as she discusses the matter.

"Today with clothes, creams, and sensibleness about eating every mature woman ought to look 20 years younger than women of the same age bracket seemed 30 or 40 years ago."

What's the secret to staying young? Being interested and creative about a challenge.

"That's better than any cosmetic, I tell my friends."

Miss Copeland has been challenged and compelled to be creative ever since her math teachers in Manhattan Public High School embarrassed her in front of the class for making drawings on her textbooks.

Fortunately, her father, Samuel Copeland, in the textile business, decided to provide opportunity for more art and less math. Jo studied at Parsons School and the New York Art League, an peddled free lance design through fabric salesmen before she was firmly entrenched in the ready-to-wear business.

VAL OFFERS DAYTONA TRIP TO CHAMPION

Hilly Rife, promoter of the Lincoln Speedway, near Abbotstown, has given the top stock car drivers in the area an attractive target for the season.

The track champion of the 1963 season will receive a week's vacation for two during the famed "Speed Weeks" at Daytona Beach, Fla., Motel, traveling expenses, spending money and tickets to the races for the big three day finale will be paid for by the Lincoln Speedway. This will be in addition to the usual winner's share of the point money for the season.

Neil Haight, Bobby Abel and Bobby Hersh, all feature winners for '63, will be shooting for their second feature win and top points this Saturday night at Lincoln half-mile dirt oval. The first event will start at 8:30.

Gene Goodling, Diz Dean, Pee Wee Pobletts, Denzil Dillman, Roy Tilley, Ray Kable, Ralph Smith, Ronnie Cranston, Jackie Faick and a host of top speedsters will be trying for their first feature win and the big slice of points that will go with the top money.

Bernie Wildason, Hanover; Ken Slaybaugh, Ika Weaver, also of Hanover, will be vying for top honors in the late-model division. The late models drew 32 cars to the Lincoln Speedway last week. The quality of the machines continues to improve from week to week. Speeds also are on the increase for the late model cars.

The Speedway, noted for its generous purse paid to both the sportman-modified division and the late models, will continue to top all tracks in the area in purses paid.

News Briefs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Anne Bancroft has received a gold statuette as winner of the Academy Award as the best film actress of 1962.

The Oscar, for Miss Bancroft's role in "The Miracle Worker," was presented to her Monday night in New York during curtain calls at the end of "Mother Courage" in which she is playing.

Russian-American composer Igor Stravinsky has arrived in Budapest to conduct the Hungarian State Symphony Orchestra in a concert of some of his works.

Actress Gertrude Berg will receive a special plaque from the Theater Guild in New York on Mother's Day, next Sunday.

For more than 30 years she has been playing various types of mothers on the Broadway stage and in movies, radio and television.

Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, a former Republican congressman, has sold his fashionable home in Washington, D.C., to Democrat W. Averell Harriman, undersecretary of state for political affairs, a Scranton aide said Monday night in Harrisburg, Pa. The aide said he did not know the purchase price.

The New York Mets actually began the 1963 National League season with three outfielders. Three others ticketed for outfield duty were listed as infielders in February.

Terry Bartolet of Easton, Pa., captain of Harvard's baseball team, plans a career in medicine. The second baseman hit .374 last season.

bought her designs as early as 1920. However Jo Copeland's name was not added to the stationery as a member of the firm until 1938.

Since then she's kept out of Paris in order not to be influenced even subtly, and has stuck to her guns about her fashion philosophies.

One of these runs contrary to Mrs. John F. Kennedy's.

"I never have stood for that understated look. I don't like a uniform. My clothes have to have a statement. And they shouldn't say the same thing for everybody."

Another philosophy runs head on with anybody believing in the economic benefits of obsolescence.

"I resent what they're doing in the auto business with new styles every time. Fashion is not that way, not GOOD fashion. That's timeless."

This thinking makes it perfectly all right to put several thousand dollars in a beaded dress that is sure to be seen and remembered from one charity ball to the next.

"I don't believe people care whether the dress is remembered. They should be flattered if it is, really. A fine dress is as good as a status symbol as anything else."

Miss Copeland happily wears last year's dresses, all created by Miss Copeland. "I dress myself in discards from the line because I'm usually too busy designing next season's things to be worried about having some things made up for me."

But who can tell: They're timeless.

Distrust Has Hampered Nuclear Test Ban Talks

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the troubles with looking at a clock is that it seems convincing. The hands point to the very latest minute in the history of man.

But even as you look the second-hand is already moving into the next minute. The minutes melt into hours and the hours into days and years. Time begins to look unreal.

This has been the history of all the years of talking between the United States and Russia about disarmament and banning nuclear tests. There has been an unreality about them minute by minute from the beginning.

"WASTE OF TIME"

Last week the Russians said they were a waste of time and, as if to prove it, the French two days later announced preparations to make the Tahiti Islands in the Pacific a nuclear testing center.

The fact that the United States and Russia since the war have been in a desperate contest to get ahead of each other in arms has been only a minor factor in the failure of their talks. The real one was and is distrust.

There could be no disarmament that either side would accept without a foolproof inspection system. They couldn't agree on that.

And, even if the negotiators agreed, the U.S. Senate could never approve stripping this country of its arms while another Communist giant, not a party to the treaty, kept on arming.

An American-Russian agreement to ban nuclear tests could hardly work, or be approved by either side, if Red China and France were free to build and test their own nuclear weapons, which is what they're aiming at.

FANTASY PLAN

But if there was an American-Russian agreement to ban nuclear tests, the two sides would still keep all their nuclear weapons unless there was an agreement to disarm. So far disarmament has been a fantasy.

Both sides have tried to make some propaganda mileage, for whatever that's worth, by presenting an appearance of willingness to disarm and stop testing.

But after all these years the rest of the world could hardly be blamed for being skeptical, particularly since the United States and Russia are skeptical of each other.

The clock grinds on and one thing melts into another.

PROTESTS RED CHINA

The United States would have to be doubly skeptical about any agreement with Russia—so long as Moscow's ally, Red China, not a party to the agreement—was free to arm and test.

The same goes for Russian skepticism about the United States so long as the American ally, France, not a party to the agreement, is free to arm and test.

To make the whole business more bizarre, the Russians have reason to be equally worried about Red China, even though they're supposed to be allies.

The Chinese Communists, by their split with Moscow, have shown they are not willing to be subservient to the Russians. If they're not willing to be subservient, then they must try to be equal.

And if they become equal, they will be a menace to the Russians as to everybody else.

FRENCH PREPARE TESTS

To confuse matters more, while the United States talked test bans with Russia, the French were busy developing their own nuclear weapons and are preparing to test them. They won't be subordinate to the United States.

While the Chinese would be enough to discourage any American agreement with the Russians, the French would be enough to discourage any Russian agreement with the United States.

If this isn't sufficiently fouled up, there's more:

In the midst of its talks with Russia about banning nuclear tests, the United States has been trying to agree with its European allies to let them have American nuclear weapons, provided this country could say when they're used.

The American government has been so foggy and vague in explaining to the American people how all this would work, the Russians must be doubly befogged and twice as suspicious.

Yet, despite all this, the two giants no doubt will keep right on talking about disarmament and a nuclear test ban if only because, in the face of world opinion, they might be too embarrassed not to.

Shipbuilder Makes Ship's Furniture

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) —

More than ships is being turned out at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co.

The company also manufactures more than 90 per cent of all the furniture that goes into the ships.

For the nuclear carrier Enterprise, for example, this meant 3,600 berths for enlisted men, 404 secretary-bureaus, 253 wardrobes, 300 bookracks, 175 desks.

Also mail trays, letter drops, end tables, coffee tables, side boards, magazine racks, bulletin boards, cigar lockers, napkin closets, music cabinets and adjustable operating tables for the ship's hospital.

In most cases wooden furniture for ships presents too much of a fire hazard. Today, the mahogany, walnut and teak is replaced by enameled steel and aluminum. Tabletops and counters are covered with plastic sheets and fire-retardant linoleum.

The Minnesota Twins, second in the American League in 1962, had the poorest exhibition record of the 20 major league teams this spring. They won 7 games, lost 20.

Military Experts Seek New Warheads

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —

To improve effectiveness of America's military rockets, engineers are experimenting with advanced warhead designs.

Included in the testing are new protective materials with higher performance and lower cost; maneuverable nose cones to change target during descent or to avoid an antimissile missile; more effective decoy warheads to confuse enemy radar, and multiple warheads to enable a single rocket to strike two or more targets.

Man Escapes Home Damaged By Slide

MIAMI (AP) — Royce Atwood

Wight was taking a nap in the bedroom of his small cottage but suddenly awoke and dashed out of the room.

Seconds later a 36-foot, three-ton concrete piling which workmen had been erecting near the place, crashed through the roof.

"I had a premonition of trouble," said the grateful Wight.

BERLIN MARKS 75TH BIRTHDAY WITH REALISM

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "When you get to be 75," says Irving Berlin, "you approach birthdays with realism."

So the realistic song writer plans nothing special when he reaches 75 on Saturday. He will be with his wife and the families of his three daughters, including four grandchildren, at the Berlin home in the Catskill Mountains. "It's just another year," he commented.

SIGNS CONTRACTS

Berlin conceded that the past year has been a significant one in his long career. It saw his return to Broadway with "Mr. President" after almost a decade of inaction. Now he has signed with MGM for his return to films with another Berlin cavalcade, "Say It With Music."

The Berlin saga has been one of the great American stories—the immigrant boy who became a millionaire by picking out tunes on a piano, his courtship of heiress Ellin Mackay against her father's wishes, his writing of anthems for two wars, etc.

DRAMATIC RETURN

His return to show business was also dramatic. After assisting with two film musicals, "White Christmas" and "There's No Business Like Show Business," he became a recluse.

"I didn't feel too well," he explained during his visit here. "Part of it was physical and part was mental. You can become quite ill if you think you're ill. It was a form of depression. I had thought that I needed a rest, but I ended up by just being restless. The real cure was to get back to work."

He remarked that he had gone through a similar period in 1930-32. He was dissatisfied with everything he wrote and feared he had lost his touch. Out of that period came "Say It Isn't So" and "How Deep Is the Ocean?"

"MR. PRESIDENT"

After some false starts, Berlin returned to Broadway this season with "Mr. President." It was his first stage musical since "Call Me Madam" in 1950, and the event was signaled by a fantastic $2,600,000 advance sale. It also met with boos from the critics.

"Nobody likes bad reviews," Berlin commented, "but I thought the ones for 'Mr. President' were a little too harsh. Some of the critics seemed not to be reviewing the show, but the people who created it."

His final comment on "Mr. President": "You strive for a smash and if you make a hit, you're grateful."

Anchovies and ripe olives make an interesting addition to crisp salad greens tossed with French dressing.

Tour Information In Any Language

TOKO (AP) — A tourist information center, where Japanese girls answer questions in English, French, Spanish and German, has opened in downtown Tokyo.

The center contains a lounge where tourists may relax after a strenuous round of sightseeing or shopping and on the second floor it has a travel library and an auditorium for film showing, lectures and exhibits.

DOCTOR NUN CIRCLES GLOBE FOR MISSION

FORT PORTAL, Uganda (AP) — Mother Mary Benedict, M.D., is an energetic American doctor-nun who circles the globe at the rate of 50,000 air miles a year.

Right now she's here in the middle of Africa to open her order's 35th hospital.

"The sisters like to call me a second John Foster Dulles," Mother Benedict says with a laugh.

She has traveled more than 300,000 air miles since she became head of the American province of the Medical Mission Sisters in 1957.

DISEASES ARE MANY

The hospitals she administers and inspects take her from the bush and jungle country of Africa and South America to the hot and sometimes troubled areas of the Far East. The patients her skilled sisters treat have some of the most serious diseases known to mankind.

The hospital in Fort Portal is in the foothills of the snowcapped Ruwenzori Mountains near the Uganda-Congo border. Diseases prevalent here include leprosy, malaria and tuberculosis and a variety caused by malnutrition.

"This is the first time we ever took over a hospital. We usually start from scratch," Mother Benedict says.

"Making this hospital into a modern medical facility will be one of the biggest challenges we ever had."

FROM SMALL BEGINNING

The hospital was formerly run by the White Sisters of Africa who last year invited the Medical Mission Sisters to take over.

The Medical Mission Sisters was founded in Washington, D. C. in 1925 by Mother Anna Dengel, also a physician, who is now superior general of the order with headquarters in Rome. A co-founder of the order was the late Father Michael Mathis, a Holy Cross Father.

From a small beginning of 4 sisters the order has grown to more than 700 members. Fifty are medical doctors and more than 400 are nurses. Other specialists include laboratory technicians, pharmacists, dieticians and office workers.

Mother Benedict, 44, has two sisters who are also nuns.

A graduate of the Woman's Medical College, Pa., she is the only sister who is a qualified fellow of the International College of Surgeons.

As a surgeon she became used to performing difficult operations, sometimes by flashlight, in Pakistan and other parts of the Orient.

BUILT HOSPITAL IN DACCA

One of her first assignments was building a hospital in Dacca, East Pakistan, a hot, damp, disease-ridden area of the world.

"We had nothing to begin with, no money, no land — just the need existed. But we persevered and finally, after five years, due to a lot of generous people and hard work, we had a hospital," she says.

Holy Family Hospital in Dacca is now one of the most modern hospitals in the Far East.

Mother Benedict regards her work and that of her sisters as a "passing phase."

"We are the intermediate people. We bring hospitals and medical care to the places where the need is greatest. Then we work to build up the indigenous people to make them self-sufficient in all respects — socially, medically and educationally."

Plastic Owls Scare Pigeons

HELENE, Ark. (AP) — County Judge C. S. Fielder of Helena has bought 12 large plastic owls to place around the county court house in an attempt to drive away swarms of pigeons.

The owls cost $36.50 and are made of plastic. They have faces on both sides and can be perched on the courthouse, hung from trees or set on poles. The judge says pigeons fear owls.

Fielder calls the owls his clean-up squad, and intends to put them to work later this year after the courthouse is repainted.

80 TREES FOR EUGENE

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Eighty trees were cut down by the city to allow widening of two streets. Protests were so strong the city now will plant an equal number, placing them in parking strips wherever residents say they will care for them.

JUST LIKE CONCRETE

BARBOURVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The announcement board in front of the Methodist Church lists the name of the pastor, the time for Sunday services and this statement: "Some people, like concrete, are all mixed up and firmly set."

LOSER MAKES HIMSELF FELT

DENVER (AP) — Six drivers were entered in the two-wheel sulky class at the National Western Horse Show this year. Five won ribbons. The sixth climbed off his seat and landed a punch on the judge's jaw. That removed him from further competition.

DANGER SAYS GOOD BALLET BUILDS FANS

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK, (AP) — "Anybody who likes music, anybody who has natural rhythm, anybody who likes to see people move well, can't help but love ballet," says Jacques d'Amboise, 28-year-old leading male dancer of the New York City Ballet.

"I think it should be the most popular form of art in the world. It has the two wonderful elements — music and dance."

"But of course it has to be done well, otherwise you hear people describing it: 'A man was standing around striking poses in his long underwear; a girl was on her toes but she kept falling off. He looked like he couldn't lift her.' But if you see good ballet, you're hooked for life."

Before he compares the traditional, story-telling ballets like "Swan Lake" with the modern works — without elaborate costumes and scenery and often to Stravinsky music — by the New York company's choreographer, admits:

George Balanchine, d'Amboise "I'm completely enveloped in Balanchine's ability and his genius, I his style, which has such life and vitality, is neat and clear and fast and disciplined, nobody else can touch him."

"But if you never saw ballet before and you saw an old-fashioned ballet danced by great dancers, you would love it. You would go again and again and now you're no longer so much interested in the ballet as in the personalities dancing."

"Then you come here and see the New York City Ballet and it's something completely different. It also takes great performers to do these ballets well, and the ballets themselves are interesting. The other parts of the art — the music and the choreography — have been brought up to the level of the performers."

SHOULD TOUR
"Really, for that reason, the New York City Ballet should tour the United States more."

The company toured for a month in Europe last fall, followed by two months in Europe. D'Amboise said Russian audiences didn't react as he had expected.

"The best example is 'Episodes,' danced in black leotards to 12-tone music by Webern. I thought that would just lay an egg. But in Moscow it had more of a success than it ever had in New York. In Leningrad it was still a success."

"I think Russians are aware they're missing something of the new music, painting, literature, choreography, and they're ready for anything modern. I think that explains why 'Episodes' was successful."

LESSONS AT 8

The handsome, 6 foot 2 premier danseur started ballet lessons at 8 at George Balanchine's school, because his older sister was taking lessons there. He joined Balanchine's ballet company a few months after it was formed in 1949, when he was 15 and had had one year of high school. The ballet was then preparing for a 1950 trip to London and d'Amboise found himself permanently out of school and in the ballet.

At first, he admits, ballet meant chiefly a way to make money while being athletic. "I didn't really begin to love my art until around 1958 when we were on tour in Australia. Before that it was always just physically enjoying it — the energies of a young person being expended on the stage."

"I always had been ashamed if I did badly and I tried to have taste. I never wanted to go out and do vulgar jumping around. I did improve all this time."

"But on that tour I had a lot of responsibility and I began to think, 'By gosh, I'm involved in something that I'm going to be involved with the rest of my life. Let's see how much I can accomplish.'"

OFTEN ON TV

D'Amboise often dances on television and usually does his own choreography. In another dozen years he expects to quit dancing and concentrate on choreography and teaching. He says, "When I arrive in my late 30s I'm going to find I have hit my peak in all the ballets."

"There's nothing worse than seeing a dancer hanging on. You remember you saw him when he was great. Now you go to see him and you're just tortured. So I don't want to continue when I don't hit my best any more."

The dancer, whose wife is the former New York City Ballet soloist Carolyn George, also plans to teach — but not overly stress — ballet to their sons, 6-year-old George and 3-year-old Christopher.

"I don't want them suddenly to do like I do — know only one thing," their father says cheerfully. "If they show great ability and desire, later they can drop everything else and learn just ballet."

"Of course what I'd really love is to have them dancers and any other children we have, I'd like to found a whole dynasty of dancers."

I'd like the art history books someday to say, 'Suddenly in the middle of the 20th Century there came in America a family of dancers that went on for hundreds of years, passing it down from father to son and son to daughter.'

"That would be nice, wouldn't it?"

Ken Heist, Wayland, Mass., junior, will captain Lehigh University's swimming team next season.

Gums Drops Open Clogged Pipes

MILTON, Mass. (AP) — The Milton Water Department has a sweet answer for one problem. Gum drops for clogged pipes.

"I know it sounds crazy," says Harold Sumner, who discovered the process some 10 years ago, "but it works and it's the most effective way I know of to clean out pipes."

Sumner explains that pipes normally are cleaned by forcing wads of paper through them under 400 to 600 pounds of pressure. But the paper wads are more apt to cause leaks and break pipes.

The gum drops — the large size just fit the standard one-inch pipes — disintegrate after being forced through and into the main.

Does Sumner ever eat the gum drops instead of cleaning pipes with them?

"Can't stand them," he says.

Duck Motel Costly For Naturalist

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Seven years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gross befriended three ducks which stopped in their yard along the Milwaukee River.

One duck hatched 15 eggs and the ducklings decided to stay. Over the years, the ducks have drawn an overwhelming number of fellow waddlers who like it so well they won't go south for the winter.

Now about 300 ducks call the Gross yard their home. Gross figures it has cost him about $725 for corn to feed the flock.

Said Mrs. Gross:

"We've been wanting to stop this thing for a long time. But the ducks keep coming back with friends. What are you going to do? Let them starve?"

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Waits 20 Years For Special Book

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — One day in about 1940, Des Moines attorney Harold Newcomb stepped into the famous Goodspeed Book Store on Boston's Beacon Hill and asked for a genealogical memoir of the Newcomb family.

The store didn't have the book then, but told Newcomb that if he would leave his name and address he would be advised if and when a copy turned up.

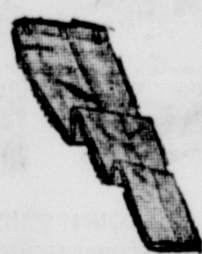

More than 20 years later, Newcomb received a letter recently from the store, informing him that the book was available if he still wanted it. He did, and he got it.

A baseball box score for one team can be proved thusly: Add at bats, sacrifices, bases on balls and hit by pitcher. These should equal the runs scored, left on base and opponents' putouts.

NEWS STRIKE DIMMED DEB PARTIES IN N.Y.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Debutantes count on newspaper clippings to warm their hearts and that of their progeny in later years, with accounts of their

"coming out" parties. So what happened to the debuts this season in New York — about 530 of them? They were blacked out by the newspaper strike, and there is no turning back the presses.

"You come out just once in your life, and all the girls were quite eager to have their pictures in the paper," says lovely Daska Ivanovic, 18, regretfully. "It would have been nice to save the newspaper stories for our grandchildren."

The pretty blonde debutante with the dark sea-blue eyes is one of the top debutantes of the year. She came out at many parties — the Junior League, Mistletoe, International and Debutante Cotillion. Her own personal debut was at a New York hotel, another with a cousin was in London.

Daska's expensive dress, a white silk Dior in a princess style, "made mommy blink" when she said she wanted it.

These days anyone who can afford it can come out, she says. "It used to be a high society, tight little clique that didn't let everyone in, but if you have money, you can make it, if you like," says Daska. Her father, a cargo ship owner came to this country at 20 from Yugoslavia. Her Florida-born mother did not make a debut.

IS IT SNOBBERY?

Daska had to decide what she wanted to do. Many girls are rebellious, think making a debut is snobbish.

"One of my friends refused to come out. She just put her foot down, said it was ridiculous, and that was it. But she went to her friends' parties," Daska says.

"I looked at it objectively, that it was a way of having fun in a group with people you like, that it would be something to remember. Girls don't make a debut just to get married or as a fluffly thing that means you are 'out.' All that is changed."

Nowadays, says the pretty debutante, "it is a way for young people to make new friends in their own set at an age when they can enjoy dates."

Daska met boys she'd always wanted to know better, one lives in the same apartment building but she really got to know them through the parties.

SCHOOLMATES PLEASANT

The parties last for three or four weeks during the holidays, much like the gay parties girls have in every town. Daska's friends at Juilliard School of Music which she attends were wonderful about it. They didn't tease her a bit.

"No one at Juilliard ever has made a debut, the whole thing is out of their realm, but being musicians it doesn't bother them in the slightest that I 'came out,' and their comments were confined to 'Oh, we saw you on TV' or 'what did you wear.'"

It will take five years for Daska to earn her music degree. Her major is piano and this is her first year.

"Few women become accomplished pianists. They get married or they're not strong enough. Concert tours are long and exhausting, perhaps 11 months of the year. It is better to enjoy music yourself or to teach. Young peo-

EXECUTIVE IS IRRITATED BY THIN FLATTERY

NEW YORK (AP) — Lynn Pressman fingered her five-strand pearl necklace, smiled sweetly at the man executive beside her and said to an interviewer:

"I think women in business are better organized than men and don't get excited as men do."

"Yet men in business are so condescending. When they flatter me I just want to do this," she clenched her fist and made a jabbing motion. "I don't say to a man 'My, you look beautiful today.' Why should they do it to me?"

SHE SPEAKS HER MIND

The man beside her gave an embarrassed little laugh but said nothing. After all, Mrs. Pressman heads a multi-million dollar toy concern. But she turned to him kindly.

"Frankly, I like to work with men better; they're less petty than women."

Loyalty to her own sex made her add: "Of course, when women are jealous, it's because they're unhappy within themselves."

This outspoken president has worked for what she's got — and she'd like to be respected for it.

"I don't understand the girls today who do their day's work and that's the end of it. I always wanted to get ahead; not just for the money but because I love to work."

She was born a farmer's daughter in Jamaica, N. Y., youngest of seven children.

"I was never very popular in school," she recalled. "I guess I had an inferiority complex. I always felt fat and pudgy. I felt sorry for myself."

Mrs. Pressman, who now is neither fat or pudgy and is considered one of the best looking brunettes at the top, chuckled:

"After high school I went to work in a department store in 1929 as a secretary. Then I became a teacher in the training department. One day the girl who had been the prettiest in high school came to me as a student. That did something for me."

HAS THREE CHILDREN

Later she went into advertising, then became a buyer of children's clothes, finally married J. P. Pressman, head of a toy corporation and quite a few years older than she. For some years she was content to be a wife and the mother of three children: Ann, now 25 and married with two children of her own; Edward, 19, now at Tufts College; Jimmy, 13.

But about 18 years ago her husband said he wasn't getting along with his partner. He was thinking of retiring. Money wasn't everything, he told her.

"I said to him, 'Let me be your partner.' He did. I brought dresses down and lived in the office seven days a week, working until 4 a.m. every morning.

"It was youth and faith — and stupidity. Today I wouldn't do that. Here I was, taking this man's fortune and gambling with it. He loved me so much."

SHE LOVES TWO MEN

She smiled wistfully at this point. "I'm also a romantic. Life without love is nothing."

When her husband died about seven years ago she took over complete control. "I keep a finger on every little operation."

Later she married Dr. Matty Gray, a good friend of Pressman. She still wears her first husband's ring and uses his name for business.

"You can love two people at the same time, and you certainly keep on loving someone after he's dead."

She said she married tidy, rather precise men and "I don't know how they put up with me. I may be meticulous about business, but I'm not personally. If the kids put their feet up on a chair it doesn't bother me. A home's to be lived in."

She likes to help children less fortunate than her own and as honorary vice president for life of the Child Care Women's League she works actively with the charity.

She likes clothes too. "I buy good clothes and wear them a long time. And I'd rather pay $39 for a dress and $100 for a hat than the other way around. A spectacular hat — and I admit I go in for them — can combine with a less distinguished dress to make you look wonderful. No dress can do that well by a so-so hat."

Her business philosophy: "I don't worry about competition. I do what I think is best."

ple come and go off the music circuit," she says.

SHE WANTS A FAMILY

Daska speaks French, German, Italian and plans to study Russian. She'd like to study political science. A member of the family is a Tory M.P. in England and has interested her in politics.

She'd like to get married and have children, although she doesn't like to sweep or cook. "I've had too much of an intellectual life to be content with it," she says. "But I'm not like some people dedicated to their art who would give up everything else for it."

SALK SCHOOL FOR RESEARCH SET ON CLIFF

AP SPECIAL REPORT
By WALTER GRAY

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The Salk Institute for Biological Studies is under construction on a cliffside overlooking a stretch of beach where the blue and emerald waters of the Pacific come to rest and roll back out to sea.

Situated atop Torrey Pines Mesa, the institute will tower above a grove of gnarled dwarf pines which cling to the face of a crumbling yellowish sandstone cliff.

The Torrey pines range downward to a deep ravine where morning sea fog frequently drifts in to cloak their haunting shapes.

POPULAR SITE

The spot has attracted others, notably a group of millionaires who vied with Dr. Jonas Salk for it.

They offered to pay $2.5 million for a 50-year lease of the property and intended to convert it into an executive golf course. A spokesman for the group told the San Diego City Council: "Top pros have said it would make it one of the finest golf courses in the world."

Typically, Dr. Salk took no part in public discussion of contending proposals for use of the $1-million plot of land and eventually it was awarded to his sponsor—the National Foundation.

Dr. Salk, who developed the antipolio vaccine 10 years ago, has been quoted as having called the site "Utopia." But in an interview he said he hadn't.

EARLY USE

The institute will be a $15-million plant with two deluxe laboratories where a body of biochemists will begin their research not later than July 1964. One of Dr. Salk's aides said some of the scientists will start to work in a temporary laboratory at the institute within three months.

Later on, philosophers, historians of science and others will join the staff.

Research at the institute will

COMEDY OPENS AT ALLENBERRY

The sprightly comedy "Separate Rooms" opened Monday evening at Allenberry Playhouse. It will continue through May 16. The action takes place in the smartly decorated penthouse apartment of Jim and Don Stackhouse in New York City, where newcomer Don Draper holds forth as the butler, Taggart. Karl Kraft, as Jim Stackhouse, does a good job as a newspaper columnist and will be seen for the rest of the season in a variety of roles. A veteran of several NBC-TV shows, he has had off-Broadway experience and has done two seasons with the South Shore Music Circus and four years with the Pittsburgh Light Opera Company.

Laurel Lockhart, a member of the junior staff of the theater, did an excellent bit of acting in the small part of Leona Sharpe, a gossip columnist, in the last act. Ann Willis, Miss Rhode Island of 1959, and Elizabeth Davison, who has had a broad acting career on TV and in summer theater, played the colorful Linda Roberts and Pamela Barry in the play, and William McKereghan and Peter Ratray played Gary Bryce and Don Stackhouse, the two suitors of stage celebrity Pamela.

be unhampered by pressure. There will be no crash projects—undertaken to lick a single, devastating disease, for instance, cancer, or to develop a particular thing, such as an atom bomb.

WORKS ON VIRUSES

Dr. Salk at present is experimenting with viruses and predicts that it will one day be possible to control as many as 100 diseases with a single, over-all antiviral vaccine.

"The way to fight cancer is to immunize man from all viruses that affect him," he said. "It may be a shotgun approach but it may be the only way."

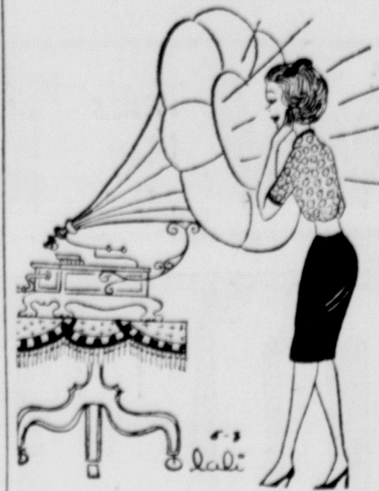

On the road to such a discovery, however, it is possible that the very roots of nature will be tapped—with far-reaching effects.

For instance, scientists probing the biological nature of man could turn up a method of altering personality patterns, potentially a contribution to the mental and spiritual well-being of man.

A Lovelier You

By MARY SUE MILLER

WHAT DO YOU SAY? It is claimed that a woman's conversation reflects her intellectual prowess. That is not always true, however, particularly in social situations. Then even a brilliant woman may take cover in light, frothy topics—as a sort of rest cure for herself and her companions. Very welcome it can be, too!

But whatever turn a conversation takes, it is an unflinching measure of a woman's good manners. A winning conversationalist is mannerly above all else. She never allows her conversation to run away with her consideration. She looks on conversation as a friendly game, played by more than one according to rule. These rules:

- Always avoid gossip, prying questions, depressing anecdotes and emotionally charged subjects.
- To keep the conversational ball rolling, be informed on a wide variety of subjects and try constantly to broaden your scope.
- When a touchy subject cannot be discussed without arguing, change it—pleasantly.
- Handle your own pet topic with caution. Never milk it dry.
- Draw out the other persons present, by calling on their pet topics.
- Give your full attention to what others have to say and do

BOYLE'S Grab Bag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—As a man is known by his enthusiasms, so he equally gives himself away by what bores him.

To one who appreciates the real pleasures of boredom, the 20th century is a source of endless joy.

A constant climate—or a constant paradise—pall upon the palate. To stay human we need to dislike as well as like. We are fortunate in that probably never before in history has there been so many things to give us a big fat yawn.

ALL YANKEE FANS

Here's one man's list:
All New York Yankee baseball fans.

Shaving every morning.
Musical alarm clocks.
Sonorous-voiced radio and television announcers who intone the news as if doom were in the saddle—and riding mankind.

Any good-looking girls under 50 who get up and offer me a seat on a crowded bus because I look so old and worn.

LITERARY SHOWOFFS

Teen-age boys who have a two-foot fox tail hanging from each show respect for their opinions. Listen in the way you would like to be listened to.

• Remember that no one will think you are shy or tongue-tied if you remain silent for a while. Your restraint will be appreciated. Heaven protect us all from a woman who monopolizes the conversation!

WINNING MANNERS

To open a door on increased poise and popularity, send for our booklet, WINNING MANNERS. Topics included are introductions, invitations, table manners, the charming hostess, you—the guest, dating manners, formal dances, travel tips and tipping, small points like when to wear a hat or check your coat. OHIO DOCTOR, 4,000 DIAPERS BEING PROBED

HARRISBURG (AP)—An Ohio doctor and 4,000 diapers were the object of a controversy on Capitol Hill today, as two Republican lawmakers called for reassessment of the operation at Eastern State School and Hospital in Philadelphia.

Reps. Blaine Hocker, Harrisburg, and Jack Seltzer, Lebanon, opened a verbal attack on the institution for emotionally disturbed children Monday at the conclusion of a hearing by the House and Senate Appropriations Committees.

The committees were hearing representatives of the Public Welfare Department outline its planned spending for the fiscal year 1963-64.

VARIED COMPLAINTS

Their complaints covered a variety of subjects ranging from diapers to the appointment of an think Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was a bewhiskered old fraud simply because he wrote verse the ordinary man can understand.

Cops who can write traffic tickets with either hand.

Airline hostesses who let lady passengers chainsmoke cigarettes, but want to throw a middle-aged male off the plane if he tries to light up a teensy-weensy little old cigar.

So what bores you?

Ohio Doctor, Dr. T. Richard Huxtable of Columbus, as acting superintendent at a salary of $17,839.

The hospital, which was built by the General State Authority and is considered to be the largest of its kind in the country devoted solely to the care of children, is to have a capacity of 340 mentally disturbed youths up to 17 years of age.

It admitted its first two patients last week, although it had been providing day-care service for emotionally disturbed children for the past four months.

The legislators said they found 4,000 diapers stored in the hospital, although they were told it would serve only children between the ages of 5 and 16.

Davis said children under five eventually would be accepted, but agreed with Hocker that the purchase of the diapers was "premature."
